Ransom of red chief study questions answers

Given article text here. Several key points arise when examining "The Ransom of Red Chief". Understanding these aspects can increase your appreciation for O. Henry's skill in combining humor with deeper themes. Grabbing a copy and diving into its contents will allow you to uncover the hidden gems that make "The Ransom of Red Chief" a literary treasure. Answer: The story takes place in Alabama, in the southern United States. Answer: Bill and Sam needed $2000 for an illicit land deal in Illinois. They decided to kidnap someone, specifically 10-year-old Johnny Dorset, for ransom. Answer: The boy they targeted was little Johnny, the son of Ebenezer Dorset. Bill attempted to lure him away with candy and a ride. Answer: When the kidnappers approached Johnny, he threw a brick at Bill's eye and fought back as they tried to put him in the buggy, indicating that this kidnapping might not go as planned for them. Answer: Ebenezer Dorset, Johnny's father, was a wealthy man known for his financial dealings. He was involved in mortgage collection and foreclosures. Answer: Red Chief, or Johnny Dorset, is a 10-year-old boy with red hair who loves to playmake up characters like the Red Chief and Black Scout. He asks many questions and hates going to school but enjoys camping out. Answer: After being kidnapped, the Red Chief was surprisingly happy, enjoying his time in the cave as he played along and had fun. Answer: Mr Dorset knew about his son's violent behavior and anticipated that the kidnappers would have lost patience by now. He agreed to pay them for Johnny's release. Answer: Bill, a large man, was being driven crazy by Johnny's treatment of him over the past two days. The boy bullied him, treated him like a horse, asked questions, kicked, bit, and even made him get his hand cauterized. Answer: Sam and Bill told Johnny that they were going to hunt bears with a silver-mounted rifle and moccasins the next day, luring him back home with this promise. Answer: Bill claimed he could travel across multiple states within 10 minutes, but in reality, this is not possible. In just 10 minutes, Sam planned to distance himself as much as possible from Johnny, a.k.a. the Red Chief. He had been dreaming about the whole ordeal, which started when he and Bill kidnapped Johnny for ransom, but things didn't go according to plan. The boy was a handful to deal with. In reality, they were supposed to be kidnapping someone else, not being held hostage by their captive. Sam's frustration boiled over as he realized they had essentially become the ones paying the ransom to get rid of the troublesome youngster.
