The definition How many countries are there in the world is not easy. According to our definition here at 1977Travelstamps, there are 197 sovereign countries in the world. There are 193 independent and recognized and in addition, we consider four independent territories such as countries: Kosovo, the Vatican, Taiwan and Palestine. Since it can be difficult to remember the capitals of each country or currency they use, we have created this practical list of all countries and capital and currencies of the world. Of the 197 independent countries of the world, not all nations have their currencies. Most European Union countries adopted the euro as their official currency starting from the year 1999. There are similar monetary unions in Western and central Africa, the Pacific region, in the Caribbean and in Central America. At the same time, there is a number of dependent territories or overseas territories in the world that use a different currency than the country where they depend. This page gives you an overview of all countries and currencies. For the best overview, there are two tables on this page. The first table shows all 197 independent countries and currencies. The second table shows all the dependent territories of the world that use a different currency than their home nation. You can scroll down or click here to jump directly to the currency list of all dependent territories. All the independent countries and capital and the currencies of the world in the event that you need a list of all the capital cities of the world or a list of world currency, we have covered you. The list below shows all countries and their capital and their currency. Below, you can also find a list of world currency and a list of countries and capitals to download. Click here to access the download section. Since you may need countries and capital and currency list for different purposes, we have created an orderable list. You can order the country and the list of capital by continent. But you can order the list in alphabetical order to get a list of all countries or capitals in alphabetical order.
