How to write a persuasive powerpoint presentation There is nothing as boring as a dull power-point presentation. It keeps the audience disengaged and 90% of the time, it does not convey the message intended. There a number of ways you can keep presentation entertaining and persuasive. Here are a few options. Introduction Begin by having an ice breaker - This can be something catchy that grabs the audience's attention. The core message on the topic should be deciphered in a subtle way, and a brief outline of the topics to be covered offered. The audience should understand and create a mental picture of the topic or message immediately. Body The body of your presentation must be attractive to the audience. Ensure use of relevant quotes which will provoke curiosity to the listener. Use of humour is acceptable too. Make bold statement both in print and how you project your voice while presenting. This presents you as knowledgeable in the subject matter you are handling. Get your audience to participate. Make their energy levels go up with a short activity to avoid their attention wandering off from the presentation. An example would be to ask a rhetorical question and have two to four different answers from the audience. All the noteworthy facts of your subject must be incorporated in your presentation with short easy to remember points. Conclusion This is a summation of the key points in your presentation. The conclusion slide should have a punch line which will be forgettable to the audience. This can be done by reinforcing your theme and reminding audience purpose of your presentation. Once you are done presenting allow a question and answer segment. Be ready to answer questions in depth. If the question does not touch to your speciality, kindly refer the question to someone who can correctly answer it. Remember to thank your audience in your last slide before the Q and A Structure of The Slides You have your content as outlined above, however your slides should have an order for that visual effect to be more enticing. Slides simple five stage process helps you with the structure of the presentation slides. Planning: Ask yourself the question at the end of this presentation what do I want to have achieved? Identifying your objective and that of your audience is the first step. Frame: Always have a beginning, middle and end. All your slides should have a heading which flows seamlessly with other slides topic. A slide with a table of content might simplify your work when flipping through topics in different slides. Splurge: Keep the prose good and clear. Neatly type each point you want to deliver, preferably in one slide. Bullet: Have a set summary from each slide content in summary form. This is a resource you may use separately for your guidance. Fluff: Content with fluff is unattractive. Read through your presentation and remove all unnecessary bullets and replace them with something more interesting. Presenter Etiquette Now you have your presentation in check. Let's discuss a few highlights on how you present yourself to the audience. Dress The Part: Dress like a slob and nobody will take you seriously. When you command your presence with your dressing, people will judge that you are knowledgeable in the subject matter you will present. Eye Contact: This brings confidence to the audience that you are knowledgeable to the subject matter. When one does not make eye contact they are seen to be hiding something. Dont Chew Gum: Chewing gum distracts your audience and it is unattractive. Speak Clearly and Audibly: It helps to practice speaking in front of a mirror or ask your relatives to listen to you while speaking. This builds your confidence. Start On Time and Finish On Time: No worse way to start your presentation late when your audience is all fidgety. Always reach on time to the venue. Ensure your computer and any accessory you need for the presentation is set and working. Be prepared for any uncertainty: Technology may at times fail you. Have your presentation printed out on hard copy. In case you cannot use your soft copies presentation. You may continue with your hard copies. Appreciate Your Audience A good way to end your talk Wondering which software you should use? Below is a list of the five alternative software for your PPT presentation. 5 Best Alternative Presentation Software A free open source, so accessible to all. Has a good variety of features and templates at its disposal. It has limitation of certain features found in current PPT versions, like the animated diagrams, internet broadcast and collaboration. It has some pretty refreshing features like the import/export compatibility with keynote files and support for embedding fonts in your presentation. A free Apple grade package. The flagship of Apple for presentation software. It is freely available for anyone who owns a post mac 2013. A little similar to the desktop version, meaning you will have a few challenges. Some times documents will not be supported with the online version. Any presentation can be shared online via a simple link. Similar to PowerPoint but with plenty of choice. Previously known as Kingsoft Office. The interface has the elements to perform every task you expect a slide to have. Stable application and has a wide range of templates to choose from. Presentation without traditional slides? Prezi does that for you in a very sleek way. This next generation tool gives you dynamic presentations and brilliant looks. The downside of it is that all presentation made by the free tool are made public. Need an eye catching presentation with a twist. Those animated infographics is what powtoon can offer. Create video presentation, music presentation and much more. Includes a traditional editor for making perfect slide decks. There are many more software; we have just outlined a few. Something went wrong. Wait a moment and try again. Something went wrong. Wait a moment and try again. Looking for some interesting general topics for presentation, you about to give? In this post, you will learn about creativity plus the best topics for your academic presentation. Either in college or school, it is always interesting to give an awesome presentation on an educational subject. You will learn about a new experience and you will be widely famous after your presentation. As most here given 5-10 minute presentation topics list are not that typical one that is presented at school and colleges. As the name suggests, these are interesting presentation topics that ultimately prove the presenters' productive thinking and problem-solving ability. We have researched the internet and made your work easier. We have chosen the best topics for general presentations for school students. Sharing Trending General Topics for Presentation to work upon: 1. Movie Ratings are Not Accurate Simple answer- different views. Different people have different views. So we can never relate to one thing. The highest-rated film is Shawshank Redemption. Even if you try to show that movie to your mom, she will not like it. Who knows, you may not have even watched the movie. So an enjoyable topic. There is a section of movie review- in English Literature. 2. Television Violence and Children. In-country of Africa where the crime rate was low. Suddenly it spiked and went up. When people identified the reason they found that it was the same time when television was introduced in the country. So children being easily influenced can end up with violence. Data proves. Presentation topics for students like this are enough to generate awareness and educate the young audience for the better. 3. How Much is Too Much Homework? Undoubtedly this is one of the best presentation topics for school students especially for those who want to know the reason behind the homework. Even if you are a college student or going to work somewhere- you will get homework. Basically extra work to do. So this topic is relevant for almost everyone even though we think it's only for school and college. Too much homework is when you don't even want to start the homework. Simple homework should be good. 4. Help the Environment by Recycling. In our country, we need this knowledge to spread more and more. Very few people know about recycling. As the people who know are very small as the population of India is very big. Your caring nature towards the environments will definitely stand you apart from the other presentations. Even you can make your PPT presentation unique, via including case studies and suggestions over it. 5. Smart City Under the present Government, we see this plan of making around 20 cities the Smart City of our country. It's innovative. It's new. It needs a lot of young minds. Talking about different ideas on how to make an existing city into a smart city. This one going to be the best presentation topic for school students reflecting their smart ideas and imagination over the city that everyone wishes to have. 6. Do books really influence you? When successful people say that you must read more books to become successful. Not all books influence you. Your Math or History book may not influence you. But an economics book may influence you. So the more books you discover the better chance of you finding your ideal book. 7. How to Set Goals and Achieve them? You may think I am not an expert myself. How can I tell others? Exactly. So tell yourself before the presentation how many days you can set goals and achieve them. And write about your experiences daily and share them in diary format. Prepare the list of 5 minutes presentation topics, and present to help college and school students who actually need such the right direction at the right time. 8. Dealing With Adolescent Depression. Very few people realize this. Adolescents, you know kids around 10-19, tend to get depressed but you can't know. Unless you are there. This topic will definitely give you an appreciation from your reviewers. that you analyze and present ideas over the common issues that no one thinks about. Your time spending on making a 5-minute presentation can save and cure someone who is in the same situation. 9. Robots V/s Humans Not just like Chitti the Robot. Many people in the past decade have lost jobs because they were replaced by machines. And now many more jobs are going to be replaced. So robots vs humans prevail. You can show a comparison in your presentation. Try to make your presentation more convincing and creative enough that whoever interacts with it, understands with ease. 10. Should Juveniles Be Tried as Adults? Juveniles are criminals who are minors. So they have fewer punishments and fines. So one group of people say this is right or else they will be scarred for their entire life. Others say, no, crime is a crime whether done by an adult or child. There must be the same and strict punishment. If not, the influential kids will easily escape the punishment. 11. Age Discrimination in the Workplace. No need to say more. All of us have experienced it. People see the experience rather than talent. Choose this general presentation topic and slam all the naysayers that one must respect elders. But you must not become a slave for them. Present your idea over age is just a number, all matters are to have the expertise to accomplish the tasks. 12. Advantages of the Traditional Nuclear Family A nuclear family is a couple and their dependent kids. You can tell them different advantages. Show them a few examples as to how the family can be efficient in this modern time also. This presentation topic may go to some emotional stage perhaps, but worth a try to leave another side of your personality that no one knows. 13. Parental Pressure on Child Actors and Athletes A very different topic. Only the child actors and athletes will know. But everybody would like to know about it. The main point is that with increasing fans and paparazzi- it can become very dangerous. See the handsome boy of Home Alone and how he turned to be now. So Parents need to support them in pursuing their passion and even a kid's life. 14. Criticism - is it good or bad? Everyone will criticize. If you take this as your topic, you too will get critics at the end of your presentation. So is it good, only if they do not hate you personally or are jealous of you, right? So criticism is not something we need. But it's something we always get. Most of the critics are good except for a few who just are the greatest negative people in the world. Also Read: 8 Tips to make your Powerpoint Presentation look Professional 15. Technology Help us or Make us Helpless It's two sides of the coin. It's difficult to understand. Technology is like a bad master-good servant thing. It can help us but if we cross the limit. It can be dangerous. So make a presentation on the faint line between the two. Of course, you can share the difference between life quality before and after technology advancements to prove your point right. 16. Think Life Without Eyes Means Blind. I have once done this program in school where they make us blind by covering our eyes. And things happened. I got hit multiple times and I didn't complete the challenge. You can do a live demonstration at your presentations. It will pop everyone's eyes out. The presentation on sensitive topics like these will definitely inform others, about their social responsibility. These interesting presentation topics are quite eye-opening to society and need to present to a larger audience. 17. Are we Happier than the previous generations? This is a famous topic. Are we happy with all this technological advancement or are we just becoming miserable? Reports show Depression increasing. So we are not exactly fully happy. Yet we want to believe in that truth. This is one side of it. Present both sides and let the audience choose the answer. This one can be a part of fun topics for presentations, that leave a positive note discussing what we are missing in our life? 18. A World Without Soldier & Weapons/ War We may think of a peaceful world, right? The only problem is people must also be so. It will be interesting to imagine. Let us think how it was before early man didn't create weapons. It will be peaceful. Yet we are not sure as to how this will happen. Present your ideas over the national borders and what will be there when there were no lines of separations? Also, what are the cause to make borders a requirement in our generation? 19. Is global warming only a myth? A title may be misleading. But we know the truth. Such titles are there to get the audience's attention. Then we can talk about what a normal citizen can do to save the world. From Global warming. There are many things. Indeed, the best topic for presentation. But you have to be prepared with your own research and depth knowledge before sharing your thoughts. For that, you can research some online-offline latest news, articles on climate changes like this one from CBS News. 20. How to Reach Your Personal Goals. Everyone loves this topic. And the only way to reach our goal is if you really like it. If you love to keep your body in your best shape. You just need to have a serious reason. Certainly, this is one of the best general topics for presentation. But it is worth a try for leaving a decent impression. 21. Sexual Harassment in the Workplace Very shameful of those people. This is an eye-opening topic that people will immediately want to hear about how to solve this problem. Not just being brave against such people. But bringing a very strict law against them. You can find a bunch of social awareness presentation topics for college students like this one, and present to those who are about to become the corporate culture in the nearest future. 22. Does religion actually divide us? Whoa! Kinda yes. Indeed, a controversial topic to present your ideas upon. We see it in our country. People don't realize that deep down they are just humans. You can present about what happened in the past and what is the future of all these things.
