Moreover, the company produces calibration accessories for its stairs. These calibration accessories are small weights of different mass, such as 50, 100, 200 and 500 grams. weighmax scales can be calibrated using weighmax calibration accessories or any other object with a known mass. locate the user manual that came with your weighmax scale. the manual has specific instructions to calibrate the scale. if you do not have the user manual, go to the weighmax website and contact the company for a copy of the user manual. select a weighmax calibration accessory equal to the maximum weight for the weighmax scale type. For example, if you have an industrial scale, as one used in a medical laboratory, the maximum weight can be about 500 grams. if you are calibrating a pocket scale, you will need smaller, probably 1 to 50 grams. Do not overload the scale, because this could damage. If "OUTZ", "EE" or "EEE" "EEE" on the LCD screen, the scale is overloaded. If you do not have a WeighMax calibration accessory, use an object with a known mass. Place the staircase on a flat surface in a room at normal ambient temperature. Turn the ladder on. Wait until the scale reads 0. Press and hold the calibrated button, which is marked "CAL". Wait for "CAL" to be displayed on the LCD screen. The calibration display will then read the zero point, "0.0". Press the "CAL" button again and hold it for two or three seconds to wait for the scale to calibrate the zero point and display the full capacity. The LCD screen should read the full capacity of that scale, like "500 g". Place a weight on the scale equal to the full capacity of the scale. For example, if the full capacity is 500 grams, place a weight of 500 grams on the scale. Wait three seconds and press "CAL". The LCD should read "PASS" and the weight mass used, such "500 g". The calibration is completed. Please confirm that you are over 21 years old (some states 18). If you have not exceeded the age of legal smoking, close our website.
